

The British Dodgeball Code of Conduct

Dodgeball is an inclusive sport that anyone can play. All those involved in the game at every level, whether as a player, referee, coach, club member, administrator or spectator have a responsibility, above and beyond compliance with the law, to act according to the highest standards of integrity, and share a collective responsibility to help provide a positive environment to ensure that the reputation of dodgeball is, and remains, high. This Code applies to all those involved in any dodgeball governed by British Dodgeball.

The British Dodgeball Code of Conduct can be broken down to the following underlying principle:

- Respect

Respect encompasses all standards that players, referees, coaches, club members, administrators and spectators must meet in order to protect the welfare of the game. The well-being of dodgeball depends upon there being high standards of behaviour both on and off the court.

All players, referees, coaches, club members, administrators and spectators competing, refereeing or attending British Dodgeball events are bound by the British Dodgeball Code of Conduct.

British Dodgeball is serious in its commitment to high standards of behaviour amongst all players, referees, coaches, club members, administrators and spectators. Any who breach the code of conduct will be subject to sanctions commensurate with the actions they have taken. British Dodgeball may also feel it is necessary to conduct disciplinary procedures with a player, referee, coach, club member, administrator or spectator as detailed in the policy document "British Dodgeball Sanctions".

The following outlines the types of behaviour that will support a safe, fun and inclusive sport. Play your part and observe the British Dodgeball Code of Conduct.
