Media Team - Livestream Volunteers

British Dodgeball is seeking enthusiastic individuals to join our team of media volunteers to tell the story of dodgeball in the UK:

Livestream Volunteers

We are looking for individuals who can operate and/or commentate on British Dodgeball livestreamed events. Volunteers will be given the training they need to feel comfortable in this role. The livestream you help to create will be used to promote the highest level of sport, helping to raise exposure and inspire players across the UK in line with British Dodgeball's core vision:

"To inspire generations and communities to experience the benefits of playing dodgeball"

Role Details:

- This is a voluntary role.
- No defined term - continue as long as you are willing.
- Media Volunteer Time Commitment: Low - although more would be welcomed, sending just one or two photos from events you are attending is enough.
- Livestream Volunteer Time Commitment: Low - Volunteer at events which suit you. Matches last 25/45 minutes in total depending on the format of the event.
- Location: British Dodgeball Events

Livestream Volunteer Duties:

- Operate the livestream as outlined in training to display relevant scores, times during matches as well as display team sheets/other graphics during pauses in play.
- Commentate on matches in a way that:
 - Educates viewers on the rules, techniques and tactics of the sport.
 - Highlights key events and positive plays.
 - Puts an emphasis on solutions over problems with the aim of developing the right culture for our sport (e.g. if cheating is observed, highlight how the aggrieved team can submit a complaint and the player in question may receive a retrospective sanction).

Application Process:

Applicants may apply by emailing farhan@britishdodgeball.com outlining:

- Your desired role/s
- Your intended involvement: Please outline where you are located and what events you usually attend so we can plan to have volunteers based in every region.
- Any experience you may already have in this role (not essential).

Applications will be assessed and you will be emailed if successful. Many thanks for helping to support our sport!
